Admiral's Foreword

As reservists, you are part of our great American heritage. Throughout our relatively short 228-year history, whenever our country was in her greatest need and sent out her call for assistance, citizen-soldiers and citizen-sailors rose to the occasion time and time again to augment our military forces. Unique among the many countries of the world, our military carries out the will of the people as directed by our elected officials and our reservists' train for the eventual call that might require their service. This call went out again shortly after 11 September 2001 (9-11) and the response was overwhelming.

Our reservists have performed with excellence in Operation Noble Eagle (ONE), Operation Enduring Freedom (OEF) and Operation Iraqi Freedom (OIF). They served across the United States and across the world in many different locations performing many different duties. Many have served and returned; many are still serving; and, many are yet to be called. There were and are many sacrifices endured by many of you and your families and some of our fellow servicemen and servicewomen have made the ultimate sacrifice on behalf of our great nation. We need to remember and honor all who have served and also to provide a mutual support system for the families of those who are still mobilized.

This book is intended to thank those of you who have answered the call and to serve as a reminder to others to be ready for the call. The pictures contained herein are not all inclusive. They are intended to be representative of all the people that have been mobilized from our Readiness Command Mid-Atlantic Units. Hopefully, it will have all the names of the servicemen and servicewomen along with their units. If it does not, I apologize to you in advance for this was not intentional. It is my strongest desire to recognize all of you for your personal contributions.

All of you are volunteers many times over. I hope that when you look back at this period in our country's history in the years to come, you will remember this time and your contribution with great pride. It is very difficult to pick up and serve on short notice but there is no greater pleasure than to reflect that you served and served well when your country was in need. Thank you all and God bless America!

DME's Foreword

By RADM (Sel.) Robin Watters

From February to December 2003, I was mobilized to the staff of Commander, U.S. Naval Forces Central Command (COMUSNAVCENT)/Commander, U.S. Fifth Fleet (COMFIFTHFLT) in Bahrain to support the Operation Iraqi Freedom (OIF) planning effort. In June, following the cessation of major hostilities, I was ordered to Kuwait to serve as the COMUSNAVCENT Liaison Officer to the Kuwait Navy. In October, I assumed additional duties in Baghdad as the Liaison Officer to both Ambassador Bremer's Coalition Provisional Authority (CPA) and Lieutenant General Sanchez's CJTF-7. I departed the theater for demobilization in December.

Navy Reservists Everywhere. First, I was amazed by the breadth of Naval Reserve roles during OIF. Throughout the area of operations (AOR), the Naval Reserve was filling key (often leadership) roles- typically under physically and mentally demanding conditions. A few examples: The lead planner for COMUSNAVCENT's role in OIF was a Reservist. The OIF planning team that he led was a mixture of personnel from both the active and reserve components. Elsewhere on the COMUSNAVCENT/COMFIFTHFLT staff, Naval Reservists were filling important intelligence, operations, supply, watchstanding, and communications billets. The lead U. S. Navy representative in Baghdad responsible for building the new Iraqi Coastal Defense Force was a Naval Reservist. Naval Coastal Warfare (NCW) personnel were 100% reserves, responsible for securing key ports and coastline throughout the AOR. Naval Reservists made up the majority of staff members running the Camp in Kuwait where I stayed, with others overseeing the movement, control, and offloading of logistical shipping moving in and out of the area. These are only a few examples of the reserve contribution.

Quality Of Our Men and Women. Our leaders often say that our people are the crucial element to success. Spending a couple of months in the AOR will make you a believer. Under often unpleasant conditions, our military forces, active and Reserve, were making it happen. Watching our folks work long hours without complaint in relentless 120 degree heat is a sight to behold. In Baghdad, I had the opportunity to talk to young men and women who were regularly in harm's way. Their spirit was high. I ran into a former petty officer who had worked for me in the Naval Reserve Force in the early 1990s. He is now a military police officer with the Rhode Island National Guard (RING). Despite the constant danger his men were facing (his command has had three KIAs), his positive spirit and devotion to duty was inspirational. Watching our team will bring tears to your eyes. They are our national treasure. A Friendly Reminder. The experience of reporting for duty with little advance notice is challenging. As a member of a professional mobilization force, we all need to routinely think through the process. You owe it to your family and your employer. Cheers.

Members of the Naval Reserve Center in Roanoke, Virginia, on 22nd and 23rd of March, volunteered to help the Habitat for Humanity to build foundations for three new homes going up in the Roanoke Valley. Fourteen personnel from NMCB 23 training unit and several members from the ACB unit combined joint forces in laying over 1700 eight inch blocks for home built for families through out the valley. This was a very fulfilling project for the units and something we can all be proud of in being involved with for our local community.

CAPT Steve Treacy, USNR, CO NR COMSCEUR 106 out of the Reserve Center in Adelphi, MD, meets with a senior Turkish port representative in Iskenderun, Turkey in the winter of 2003. Mobilized to support Military Sealift Command, Europe (MSCEUR), CAPT Treacy played a key leadership role in the success of sealift operations in the European Theater in support of OEF/OIF.

Greek and Turkish ensigns fly next to one another in port at Souda Bay, Crete, Greece. The ships were part of a multinational task force of naval ships supporting operations in the Mediterranean during Operations Iraqi Freedom and Enduring Freedom. MSC and EUR Port Operations 104 personnel were mobilized to Souda Bay to help support MSC ships enroute to and from the theater of operations.
